

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Fortner, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women. Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

COMMENDED BY A FARMER.

GREENSBORO, GA.
As long ago as I can remember I have known of Mustang Liniment. I always keep it in my house and if any of my family get injured in any way, such as sprains, cuts, bruises, and, in fact, in many accidents that happen I always use Mustang Liniment. On my horses and stock I never think of using anything else—it is far cheaper than doctors' bills. I commend it to all farmers; it will keep their families and also their horses and stock in condition. Very truly yours,

Where Did the Flowers Come In?

By ELSIE B. MATTESON

Bob Garwood, aged thirty, had buried his father, then his mother. He and his sister had kept up the family home till the sister died and Bob found himself alone. He was at a loss what to do. He had been born in the house and had never lived anywhere else, the thought of leaving it and going to a hotel, a boarding house or bachelor apartments was repulsive to him. He determined to stay where he was.

He stood the loneliness of living in a house all by himself for several months, then gave it up. He preferred to take his meals elsewhere so that it seemed useless to keep a servant. The consequence was that everything grew dingy. He could not see through the window panes since they were covered with dirt; he considered it useless to make his bed since there was no one to see it except himself, and he didn't care. Dust and cobwebs began to appear. He wrote on a card, "This house is to let. Inquire within 9 to 9 a. m., 5 to 6 p. m." and tacked it on the front door.

Returning from business at 5 o'clock, he sat down in his accustomed seat by the window, opened his evening paper, sighed and listlessly read the news. About half past 5 there came a ring of the door bell. Garwood slowly rose from his chair and answered the summons. There stood a lady between twenty-five and thirty with a little girl. On her face was a melancholy look. The child might have been four years old and was the only one of the three who was not somber.

"I see this house is to let," said the lady. "May I look at it?"

"Certainly! Come in."

Garwood showed her through the rooms, told her what rent he expected to get and that possession could be given at any time.

"I'm afraid," she said, "I'd better not take it. I should have to make the rent by letting rooms, and if I couldn't find roomers I should be in trouble. I'm not much of a business woman. I wasn't brought up to it. My husband died only a year ago and we were married and left me some money, but I didn't know how to take care of it, and it is all gone. I haven't $50 left."

"I might take a room with you myself," said Bob.

"Would you?" said the widow, with a faint glow of hope.

"If I were to keep one room at, say, $25 a month that would leave the rent out but $25."

The lady caught at this, and to help the matter out Garwood told her she could see what she could do in renting the other rooms, and he would not let the house till he heard from her. She departed quite comforted, and as soon as she was out of sight he went out and took down the notice.

Garwood waited a week for word from the widow, when he received a note from her stating that she had been able to find but one person who would agree to take a room with her, so she feared she would have to give up the plan of taking the house. Garwood called to see her and said he thought he would like to keep two adjoining rooms, for which he would pay $35 a month, leaving the rental but $15. The widow seemed encouraged and said that if he could give her more time she thought she could make arrangements that would warrant her taking the house. Garwood told her not to hurry.

Not hearing from her for some time, he called on her to learn what progress she was making. She apologized for keeping him waiting, explaining the delay by saying that two different persons whom she hoped to secure as roomers had been undecided. However, presuming from his having called that he was getting impatient she would not keep him waiting any longer, but give up the idea of taking his house. He assured her that he was not impatient and begged her to proceed in her efforts. The next day he mailed her a proposition to keep the rooms and a bath, for which he would pay $50 a month, and this would leave her no rent to pay.

To this the lady replied, acknowledging the liberality of his terms, but unless other roomers were in the house with them she would not like to take the opinion of the world by living alone in the same house with a man.

Garwood had proceeded as far as he could in the matter and deemed the lady right in the position she had taken. Indeed, he felt it incumbent upon him to call and apologize for having made a proposition that looked, to say the least, out of place. So he went to see the lady again and explained that he had supposed she would bring some relative or other person who would be glad of a home without paying room rent. The widow told him that she was alone in the world and very lonely. To this Garwood sympathetically replied that he was in the same position. He left assuring her that he would not give up the plan; he would think it over and see if he could not find some way out of the matter.

The only way out of the matter was to rent his house to the widow without rent and pay all the bills. This would not do at all without marriage, so he mailed her a proposal, which was accepted.

When her acceptance had been mailed the widow gathered up a number of withered flowers that had been coming from time to time during the negotiations and burned them.

Inspired Famous Hymn.

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul," is a hymn around which many traditions and sacred associations cling. The story connected with its origin may be legendary, but it is no less beautiful. Its author, Charles Wesley, was sitting at his desk by an open window when a bird pursued by a hawk flew in. The bird was saved, for the hawk feared to follow it. The incident inspired Wesley to write his famous lines.

Chronic Stomach Trouble Cured.

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. Is it not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle? "About one year ago," says E. H. Beck, of Wakelee, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used many number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." For sale by all dealers.

The daughter was a lyric artist. A young Austrian girl of 13 threw herself onto the rails as a train was entering the Maribor station of the Metro. A woman of 40 took arsenic, and the fifth, who was 27, shot herself through the heart.

The Aleutian Islands.

Until the time of Peter the Great the Aleutian Islands were unknown. The famous Russian monarch, consumed with curiosity as to the distance between Asia and America, started, in 1725, the first of the expeditions that at last revealed those haunts of the bear, the beaver, the ermine and the seal. But Captain Cook told more about the islands than did all the Russian explorers before him.
